

Yankee Group Escapes Death When Big Shell Shatters Home

By HAL BOYLE
With American Troops in Germany, Oct. 3 (Delayed) (AP)—Oct. 3, driers have had dud shells land close to them and have come through the ordeal with nothing worse than a case of shaken nerves, but Maj. D. L. McReynolds is one of the few men to survive the effect of a live 150 mm shell dropping only four feet away.

This Cleveland, Tenn., officer and the rest of the personnel in a forward command post which directed the newest breach of the Siegfried line are still knocking wood because they all came through without a scratch.

McReynolds was standing in a room when the shell hurtled through the wall and whizzed on through the floor four feet from him. Stone fragments and cement showered through the room.

Maj. Warner C. Giles of Athens, Tenn., was standing next to McReynolds.

Delayed Type
"A door hit me across the back and I thought I was going to glory," Giles said.

The shell apparently was of the delayed type which explodes a fraction of a second after impact, enabling it to penetrate first and thus cause more damage when it bursts.

The soldiers had no chance to scramble from the old stone building before it shook with a terrific blast.

"That whole floor buckled and the place was a wreck," said Cpl. Leonard Armato of Vineland, N. J. "If the floor had been made of wood we would all have been killed or injured."

"We just packed up our stuff and moved to a new location and went on with our war," he added.

Others in the command post at the time were Lt. Arne Nielsen, Oakland, Calif.; Cpl. James J. Bradley of Lansdowne, Pa.; Sgt. James W. Marsh of Tallahassee, Fla.; Pfc. George E. Stephens of Meridian, Miss.; and Capt. Lester Royalty of Oakland City, Ind.

Down Comes Sign
Lt. Oscar Rechtschaffen, Middle Village, N. Y., and Lt. Walter Gunther of Fairlawn, N. J., were driving through a small town when they saw a sign in a small cafe reading "forbidden to Jews."

The two officers politely asked the proprietor to remove it.

"Why we must always have signs up like this forbidding Jews," the proprietor protested.

"Well, the Nazis aren't here anymore and now it is forbidden to put up such signs," said Gunther.

Down came the sign.

In the small town on the border of Belgium and Holland lived a man and his wife who for years were active collaborators and spies for the German invaders.

The husband was killed mysteriously—found dead one morning with a knife thrust in his throat.

Ready To Die
Instead of changing her tack, his widow intensified her activities in behalf of the Nazis and because she was a woman, the local patriots spared her life—and suffered from her vigilant informing tongue.

But when American troops marched through on the heels of the fleeing Gestapo the townspeople decided the time for retribution had arrived. They shaved her head and marched her in shame through the streets.

That punishment didn't suit two 80-year-old women. They stepped up to her, each in turn, and soundly cuffed her ears. Then they hobbled off together to church to give thanks for the departure of the Germans.

"Now we are ready to die," said one. "We have lived to see our country liberated."

60 VOLUNTEERS BEGIN COUNTY CONCERT DRIVE

More than 60 volunteer workers from the county who will enroll members during the coming week in the Gettysburg Community Concert association met Friday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg at an organization dinner.

Edmund W. Thomas, president of the concert association, presided and a number of local persons gave brief talks in addition to the main address of the evening by Miss Beatrice Patterson, a representative of the Columbia Concert, Inc.

Miss Patterson explained the plans of the campaign in which 550 members will be sought, announced the days and times for progress check-ups and spoke of the possible selection of artists for the various concerts.

Other Speakers

Among the local citizens speaking were Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, Dean Dorothy Gregg Lee, dean of women at Gettysburg college; Dr. Abdel Ross Wentz, president of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary; W. E. Tilberg, dean of Gettysburg college; Dr. Fred Tilberg, National Park historian and treasurer of the concert association; Mrs. Frank H. Kramer and Mrs. F. K. Schwartz, membership drive chairman.

In her talk, Miss Patterson stressed the fact that membership in the association is open to every person in the county. The only limit imposed on the number of members will be the 550 seating capacity of Brua chapel at the college where the concerts will be presented.

Both adult and student memberships will be open this season, the former costing $5 and the later $2.50. The 20 per cent federal amusement tax is included in the membership fee and there are no other assessments for the current year.

Drive Is Underway

The volunteer workers began their canvass of county communities today and the first check-up day will be Wednesday. Workers may make reports, however, at any previous time and Miss Patterson requested that such reports be made daily if possible.

She will be at the association booth in the Hotel Gettysburg lobby daily to receive reports, accept memberships and answer questions. The booth will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. The telephone number at the booth is 677.

Miss Patterson set the hours from 7 to 9 o'clock Wednesday evening for the check-up. All workers are to report their total memberships at that time if they have not yet done so. For those who cannot go to the hotel during the evening Miss Patterson suggested making a report in the afternoon.

RUSH BY VOTERS TO REGISTER FOR FALL ELECTIONS

A steady stream of voters was moving through the county commissioners' office at the court house today on the last day of registration before the general election November 7.

The office will be open until 9 o'clock tonight, as it was Friday when a total of 188 persons were registered. For the day Democrats took the lead, with 90 persons listing that party affiliation. There were 86 Republican and four non-partisan registrations.

The registrations Friday represented the highest total of any single day since the spring primaries. This morning the line of voters frequently extended into the hall from the commissioners' office and the three clerks were working at top speed to accommodate the registrants.

After today, the only persons who may register and vote are those whose twenty-first birthday comes between October 8 and the election day.

Arrive Overseas

Sgt. Wayne Murray has arrived safely in France according to word received by his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Murray, North Stratton street.

Mrs. Winifred White, York street, has received word that her son, Pvt. Carroll White, has arrived in France. He serves with an engineering outfit.

It Takes Courage

In the last half century of his medical practice, Dr. T. C. Miller, 75-year-old Abbottstown physician and dean of Adams county doctors, has performed many acts of mercy but Friday morning at the Warner hospital Doctor Miller saved the life of an unfortunate skunk after exposing himself to "considerable personal hazard."

During his visit at the hospital, nurses called Dr. Miller's attention to a full-grown skunk walking weakly about the parking lot at the rear of the building with a mayonnaise jar firmly fixed around its neck and with the skunk's head inside the jar.

Residents of that section of South Washington street said they had seen the animal in that plight more than a week ago.

DAR OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY OF WILLIAM PENN

The 300th anniversary of the birth of William Penn was commemorated by the Gettysburg chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the October meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. K. Eckert, Springs avenue, when members of the history club at Gettysburg high school presented a radio skit depicting the founding of the Commonwealth.

The student group was under the direction of Miss Louise Ramer, history teacher at the high school. Besides events directly connected with the founding of Pennsylvania, the students portrayed events connected with Penn's treaty with the Indians and the development of some of the more important principles upon which our government is founded.

Early steps to insure such basic rights to freedom of religion, the right to vote, the right to own land and the right of trial by jury were recounted.

Student Program

Pennsylvania songs were sung by Miss Janice Sachs accompanied by Barbara Johnson. Norman Rasmussen was narrator for the skit and also played the part of the English king; James Smith appeared as a judge and an Indian chief. Walter Keeney was William Penn and the following were heard as "voices": Arlene Rohrbaugh, Doris Gittlin, Mildred Walter and Barbara Wolff.

During the social hour that followed the program, Miss Alice Black and Mrs. C. E. Bilheimer poured tea.

Miss Black presided at the meeting in the absence of Mrs. R. S. Saby, the regent. Miss Black is first vice regent. Other hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Fred Troxell, Mrs. John Mumper and Miss Helen Zinn.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held November 3 at the home of Mrs. George Amick.

SCHOLARSHIP IN HERBERT GRIMM NAME CREATED

At a luncheon meeting of the Pennsylvania Hotel Greeters, allied organization of the Pennsylvania Hotels Association, at the Penn-Harris hotel, Harrisburg, this noon, the Herb Grimm hotel scholarship at Cornell university was created.

The scholarship, a tribute to the memory of the late Herbert L. Grimm, for sixteen years editor and manager of The Gettysburg Times, was made possible by voluntary contributions of more than $2,700 from hotel men and women from throughout Pennsylvania and adjacent states.

Presented By Moore

Charles A. B. Helme, president of the Greeters, outlined details of the scholarship, available to deserving young men and women of Pennsylvania who are interested in the hotel industry.

Franklin Moore, managing director of the Penn-Harris hotel, former president of the American Hotel Association and a personal friend of the late Mr. Grimm, made the presentation address.

The scholarship check was accepted by Professor Howard B. Meek, head of the Cornell Hotel school, on behalf of the university.

"Tribute To Herb Grimm"

Mr. Moore said: "It is a tribute to the memory of Herb Grimm that the fund was so easily raised. It is gratifying to note that subscriptions came in small and in large amounts from not only Pennsylvanians but from leading hotelmen and allied industries from many sections of the country."

Heading the subscription list was Henry M. Scharf, manager of the Hotel Gettysburg, who with Mr. Grimm founded "The 41-er," official Greeter publication in Pennsylvania and now known as "The Pennsylvania Hotel Herald" one of the finest hotel publications in the east.

Mr. Grimm was associated with the Pennsylvania Greeters for a number of years and took an active part in their state activities.

SHORTAGE OF KEROSENE IS FORECAST HERE

Mailing of space heater ration coupons for the 1944-45 heating season has been completed by the Gettysburg War Price and Rationing board, Chairman R. M. Hoffman announced today.

The heating year for householders, who use kerosene for space heating, officially began September 1. Chairman Hoffman said, pointing out that rations must be budgeted to last until August 31, 1945.

"The start of the heating season has been moved up from October 1 to September 1 this year in order to spread demand for oil more evenly throughout the year," Mr. Hoffman said.

"From now until November when the cold weather usually starts, families are urged to be particularly careful of the amount they use because careless use now may mean the difference between a reasonably warm or a chilly home later in the winter."

"It is imperative that kerosene rations be cut to the absolute minimum needed to maintain health and consumers must use their rations carefully to conserve as much as possible this year. While families must learn to get along on a lower-than-normal supply of kerosene, there are many things they can do to help maintain their comfort during the winter. If every one is careful in the use of his ration allotment, no one should suffer hardship this winter."

"Military requirements for kerosene are continually increasing as the European and Pacific offensives are stepped up, and civilian requirements for kerosene for war production and other essential industrial uses and for cooking and lighting are much greater than before the war."

"In view of this, we at the Local War price and rationing board have carefully reviewed kerosene rations for space heating. Because of the very short supply situation on kerosene, we have had to cut the rations of applicants who previously had more kerosene than they really needed."

"We did not make these cuts because we like to give folks less, but simply because kerosene is going to be very short this year and we will be hard pressed to allocate enough to keep everyone warm this winter,"

2 Spearheads Seek Break To Cologne Plain

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—American First army forces thrusting into Germany above Aachen have driven to a point a half mile north of Beggendorf and have expanded their salient by a thrust a mile and one-half down the road southeast from Ubach, Supreme headquarters announced today.

"A counterattack in strength by enemy infantry and tanks was repulsed during the morning near Herbach with no material change in the line," a communique added.

The communique made no reference to a new drive from the forest of Hurtgen which frontline dispatches said had stabbed to within six miles of Duren, 15 miles east of Aachen.

Doughboys of the Third army continued to cling to their positions within Fort Driant five miles southwest of Metz against stubborn German resistance and heavy artillery fire.

Foe Regains Ground

"Near Sivry, north of Nancy," the communique said, "the enemy regained some ground in a counter-attack."

The American Seventh army had small local gains to report generally along its Vosges foothills front, and the communique announced that Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's troops were now on three sides of Le Thillot, 18 miles almost due north of Belfort, after advances of five to seven miles.

Further progress was made through the heavy woods west of Belfort, probably putting advance forces less than ten miles from the city.

To the north, Canadians fought for a broadened foothold across the Leopold canal and stabbed across the Dutch frontier north of Antwerp within three miles of the only road linking the mainland with the Nazi-held islands of Beveland and Walcheren.

Aiming at Cologne

Northeast of Nijmegen British and German troops were locked in heavy fighting between the Waal and the Dutch Rhine.

Both American spearheads are attempting to break out into the Cologne plain.

Above Aachen both sides were employing tanks and fighterbombers. The Germans used 100 aircraft, the biggest flight they have employed in many weeks, but American fighters and ground defenses shot down 36 in savage battles.

The improving weather was reflected yesterday and last night in a series of mighty air attacks on Germany, including Berlin.

Beating off five enemy counterblows aimed at its corridor in Holland, the British Second Army poured more troops, tanks, guns and supplies into that salient for impending battles.

Despite German reports that British Second Army troops had crossed the Neder Rhine at Wageningen, 10 miles west of Arnhem, supreme headquarters reported only that the British had repulsed a German counterattack at Opheusden on the south bank of the river three miles southwest of there.

Attack Dunkerque

The Canadians have renewed their attack on Dunkerque. They also have crossed the Leopold canal in force between Brugge and Eekloo and are driving to wipe out 5,000 Germans still dug in on the south bank of the Schelde river between the important Belgian port of Antwerp and the sea.

The Germans expect another 12 Allied divisions to be thrown at them, either in a new landing along the North sea or by development along the west front, the Transocean correspondent Ludwig Serfortius said in a broadcast this morning.

Associated Press War Correspondent Don Whitehead, writing from the First Army front, said in a dispatch last night that German troops were observing to the very last letter this order issued some days ago by Nazi Field Marshal Walter Von Model:

"Every village must become a stronghold, every block of houses a fortress. He who has a weapon and does not use it does not deserve to live, and will be annihilated on the spot by his comrades."

Reds Surge Into Hungary Along A 75-Mile Front

By EDDIE GILMORE

Moscow, Oct. 7 (AP)—Russian troops have surged across the Romanian frontier into Hungary along a 75-mile front less than 100 miles southeast of Budapest in a powerful attack that has already enveloped more than 100 communities of that last big Nazi puppet nation.

Already 13 miles inside Hungary the Red Army has seized three important railways and highways and highways leading into Budapest. Driving swiftly across farmlands offering little natural defense the Red army troops captured Mako, within 15 miles of Szeged, Hungary's second city, and drove toward Orszaha and Bekes, 90 miles to the east, the War bulletin said last night.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Jean Moser, 15, daughter of Pvt. and Mrs. Harry Moser, West Railroad street, was treated at the Warner hospital for a fracture of the left shoulder received in a fall from an automobile Thursday night. After receiving treatment she was discharged.

Mrs. Sally Guise, 66, Arendtsville, received medical attention at the hospital Friday for a fractured left wrist sustained in a fall Thursday afternoon. She was discharged after receiving treatment.

Alfred Levan, 57, 271 Baltimore street, was treated Friday for the removal of a piece of steel from his left arm.

Elmer Gastley, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gastley, 68 West Railroad street, received contusions of the scalp when he was struck by an auto driven by William H. Batterman, York, Friday evening at 7:50 o'clock. He was discharged after receiving treatment.

Philodendron, Chinese evergreens, ivy and Boston ferns. Wardside Flower Shop.

to the east, the War bulletin said last night.

While Soviet planes dropped leaflets exhorting the Hungarians to quit the Axis before it is too late, other Russian troops menaced Hungary from the Yugoslav frontier on the south. Augmented by Yugoslav partisan forces, they reached the Tisa river 45 miles below Szeged.

In Yugoslavia, Belgrade was virtually besieged.

There still was no indication whether the Germans were going to make a fight for the Yugoslav capital and there was no official report that Russians had crossed the Danube in the immediate Belgrade area. There was reason to believe, however, that the Russians and Tito's units were almost at the lowland suburbs across the river, if not already in them.

(The Algiers radio said the Germans were evacuating troops from Belgrade with the use of big transport planes.)

Hungary also was menaced by Russian military might from the north where along the Czechoslovak-Polish border Soviet troops fought toward a crossing of the Carpathian mountains.

BULLETINS

Detroit, Oct. 7 (AP)—Packard Motor Car Co. officials said today their plant, employing 10,000 persons, was threatened with a complete shutdown because of a strike of 1,000 maintenance men.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 7 (AP)—Fourth U. S. Circuit court of appeals has reversed the decision of a district court which held time spent by coal miners in traveling underground to and from their jobs was not work time.

AACHEN BATTLE MAY LEAD INTO DECISIVE PUSH

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Associated Press War Analyst)

The extent and fierceness of the battle which has grown out of the American First Army plunge through the outer crust of the powerful Siegfried line in the Aachen section encourages the belief the impending general Allied offensive on the western front will develop quickly.

There's also a feeling among military experts on both sides of the Atlantic that if October produces its ordinarily good fighting weather we may see decisive developments. Among those subscribing to this view is "Veritas," official war commentator for the British Ministry of Information in London. He has this to say of the expected offensive:

Defense Is Crust

"It will probably be stiff, unspacious going at first, for there is a strong crust of German resistance based on skillfully prepared positions of great natural strength. But it is no more than a crust. There are a few veterans divisions of really good quality, but the newly formed divisions (or rather battle groups) consist of a stiffening of SS men (Elite Guardsmen) or Hitler Youth, while the remainder are of poor physique and morale and almost untrained. The military value of such reserves as there are inside Germany is negligible.

"Major operations (as distinct from the later stage of guerrilla warfare) may continue for some months yet, but October—which usually provides reasonably good campaigning weather in the west—is likely to see developments of decisive importance."

That sounds like good medicine from a well informed expert. Eisenhower has been rushing preparations for the all-out offensive. Now comes the battle of Aachen to invite a quick launching of the big drive. The Germans have thrown every available resource into the defense of this broad highway into the heart of the Reich. As a result there has developed one of the bloodiest engagements of the invasion.

Strain on Reserves

This added strain on Hitler's terribly depleted reserves naturally renders the rest of his 480 mile battlefront more vulnerable, and one would expect Eisenhower to take advantage of that fact by making a general attack to put heavy pressure on all points of the Nazi line. This would tend to keep the Germans off balance, and must result in uncovering a weak spot which could be pierced—unless indeed it already has been found in the Aachen area.

As our own Secretary of War Stimson says, the Nazis "do not have the full manpower needed for the defense job." The vastly superior Allied striking power insures victory.

However, we already have plenty of evidence that there's likely to be heavy fighting. Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons yesterday that "a good deal of blood is going to be shed in the next few months." That's bound to be so long as the Germans elect to fight with backs to the wall.

BIGLER BOARD ELECTS TEACHER

At a meeting of the Biglerville school board Friday evening Mrs. Claude Miller was elected to teach the third grade. Previously Miss Alma Miller taught the third and fourth grades.

The addition of a new teacher was made to relieve the over-crowded conditions in the grades. There being no room in the grade school building for third grade students, arrangements have been made according to state recommendation and approval, to use the Bucher restaurant room on the lot adjoining the school.

The first, second and third grades will now occupy separate class rooms and the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will be departmentalized with the following staff of teachers: Miss Alma Miller, Miss Caroline Rex, Prof. Charles L. Yost and Francis Coulson.

The board decided that the junior and senior high school will remain closed next week in order to cooperate with the fruit harvesting which has been delayed because of inclement weather.

The board, feeling that the present generation of young people is being deprived of the type of education which it will need for post-war living, went on record as favoring more careful planning in the future in order to reduce the length of time during which the school is closed during harvest periods.

All members of the board attended the meeting.

FIREMEN TO MEET

The quarterly meeting of the Adams County Firemen's association will be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Irwinshire fire company hall. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick P. McGee, rector of the Church of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, McSherrystown, will be the principal speaker. James B. Aumen, Gettysburg, will present a report on the state firemen's convention held recently in Hazleton.

HE WASN'T IDLE

Yonkers, Oct. 7 (AP)—Ulrich Wiesendanger moved here 50 years ago, intending only to follow his profession of pharmacy. He has served as city civil service commissioner, county coroner, state examiner of trust funds, undersheriff and sheriff, and mayor. Now he is chairman of the local draft board.

GREAT PART OF PELOPONNESUS CLEAR OF NAZIS

Rome, Oct. 7 (AP)—A great part of the Peloponneseus in Greece now is clear of Germans, Allied headquarters announced today.

British ships bombarded the Greek island of Levitha on Oct. 5, and then landing parties captured the eastern half of the island. The German commander on the island surrendered at dusk after a further bombardment.

Levitha is a small island 43 miles west of the Turkish coast and approximately the same distance south and slightly west of the island of Samos the capture of which was announced in a communique issued by Greek headquarters in Cairo yesterday.

Allied planes strafed six German-held airfields near Athens and Salonika on the Greek mainland in the face of heavy flak but met no fighter opposition.

Fliers Are Active

Conducting effective strafing attacks, U. S. 15th Air Force Mustangs and Lightnings countered German attempts to evacuate or supply troops by air and destroyed more than a score of enemy planes on the ground.

Four of the enemy airdromes attacked are within a 12-mile radius of Athens. Airdromes at Sedes just south of Salonika were strafed by Lightnings which hit parked aircraft, motor transport and a radio station.

Spiritfires and Hurricanes of the Balkan air force swept the Gulf of Corinth, shooting up a convoy of Germans attempting to escape from the Peloponneseus. Despite heavy flak, a Siebel ferry and a landing craft loaded with troops were left burning.

Italian-based Balkan air force planes also gave support to Allied troops in Albania where the German headquarters at Delvino was remobilized by a salvo of rockets.

UNRRA TO LOSE CONTROL OVER POLISH RELIEF

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—United Nations officials now expect that the Soviet sponsored Polish Liberation committee may have full control of distributing relief supplies in liberated areas of Poland.

A United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration commission probably will be sent into the area to estimate needs and to work out plans for distribution.

A similar commission may go into the areas of Yugoslavia controlled by Marshal Tito, but the Yugoslav situation is less complicated since Tito, while he controls the Yugoslav Committee of Liberation, is also associated with King Peter's exiled government so that no question of jurisdiction arises.

UNRRA's predicament over Poland stems from the split between Russia and the Polish government in exile. Its solution is believed to lie in the common interest of feeding and clothing cold, hungry millions.

UNRRA officials wrestling with the problem here have fallen back on two stated principles of the organization: (1) Relief must be distributed without regard to race, religion or politics and (2) UNRRA may deal with whomsoever is in administrative control of an area in which supplies are to be distributed.

The exiled Polish government in London is a member of UNRRA as is Russia, but the Soviet-sponsored Polish Liberation committee with headquarters at Lublin is in control of the Polish territory liberated by Russian armies.

ALLIES POUND REICH TARGETS

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—Allied bombers crowded the skies in good weather over Germany today piling up new destruction in the wake of more than 6,000 flights by bombers and fighters yesterday.

The Eighth Air force and the RAF sent up more than 3,000 heavy bombers in night and day operations against oil and industrial targets and airdromes with Berlin, Dortmund, Bremen, Hamburg and Ludwigshafen among the targets.

Incomplete reports indicated the second tactical air force flew 1,500 sorties and the Ninth Air force flew another 1,800 yesterday in support of the U. S. First and Third armies.

Bad weather restricted operations of the Mediterranean Air force, but Germans in the Balkans were attacked during the night by bombers.

One formation of U. S. planes tangled with more than 30 Messerschmitts over Saarbrücken on the Third Army front. It shot down four of the enemy at the cost of one American plane.

Airmen claimed the destruction of eight locomotives and 72 cars. Twenty-six tanks, armored vehicles and motor transport were reported damaged or destroyed. Railroads were cut in 22 places.

Planes Hit Japs In North Burma

"Southeast Asia" Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Oct. 7 (AP)—With strong air support, Allied forces today were reported laboriously wiping out Japanese entrenched in Bunkers and other strongpoints on the approaches to Tiddim in northwestern Burma.

The enemy now has abandoned defense of the "chocolate star-cake" section of the Tiddim road which winds up 3,000 feet in 40 hairpin turns. Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said.

JAPS CAPTURE CHINESE PORT

(By The Associated Press)

Foochow, capital of Fukien province and the last major port held by the Chinese on the East China coast, was captured by a Japanese invasion force three days ago, a Tokyo broadcast of a Japanese imperial communique said today.

There was no immediate confirmation of the claim from Allied sources, but the Chinese high command yesterday said Japanese troops had reached the northwestern suburbs of the city, located across a narrow strait from the northern tip of the Japanese occupied island of Formosa.

Foochow, occupied by the Japanese previously in April 1939 and retaken by the Chinese in September the same year, was the target of Japanese troops landed in Fukien province in what Tokyo said was a drive to forestall American landings from the Pacific.

Meanwhile an Associated Press dispatch from Chungking said a Chinese communique announced Chinese troops had completed the recapture of an important position southwest of Lungling, in Yunnan province to the southwest, with the capture of a high peak.

Aircraft of the 14th U. S. air force bombed the Mangshieh area Oct. 5 causing fire and explosions and on Oct. 4 the 10th U. S. air force bombed a bridge at Wanting, as well as other targets in the vicinity, the Chinese communique said.

160,000 VIEW SMITH'S BODY IN CATHEDRAL

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Funeral services for former Gov. Alfred E. Smith were set for 11 a. m. today at St. Patrick's cathedral where the body of the "Happy Warrior" of American politics had lain in state overnight in an honor only once before accorded a layman.

That was in 1941 for Ignace Jan Paderewski, Polish pianist and statesman.

Smith, who died Wednesday, will be buried in Calvary cemetery beside his wife who died last May 4.

A solemn pontifical mass of requiem, preceded by a pontifical procession, will be celebrated by the Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, auxiliary bishop of New York. The Right Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, vicar general of the archdiocese, will preach the sermon. About two-thirds of the cathedral will be open to the public, the remainder being reserved for the family, close friends and business associates.

160,000 View Body
Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will attend the services, with Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the Second Service Command, representing the President.

Doors of the great cathedral remained open until 1:30 a. m. today to permit more than 160,000 persons to file by the open bronze casket in which reposed the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate wearing the medal of the Knights of Malta on his chest and his hands clasping his Papal-blessed rosary.

It was the largest gathering of mourners since an estimated 130,000 viewed the remains of Patrick Cardinal Hayes in 1938 when the cathedral remained open until after midnight. The line of mourners which began entering the church at 2 p. m. at its peak yesterday stretched eight abreast around the entire block occupied by the cathedral.

The procession was halted briefly while Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his wife and members of the Smith family visited the church. Dewey issued a proclamation setting today as a day of public mourning and directed that all state offices be closed, with flags to be flown at half staff for a 30 day period.

Throughout the night an honor guard of the Catholic War Veterans was stationed at the door.

Warsaw Residents In Peril Again

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Polish telegraph agency reported today that Germany had ordered the evacuation of the entire Polish population of Warsaw, estimated at one million persons, and added "there is every reason to believe they intend to send a large proportion of these to concentration and labor camps."

The agency said the Polish government in London has made "an urgent and desperate appeal to all the United Nations to help at all costs to prevent this new mass crime form being committed."

The English walnuts, a small variety, sold for 20 cents a quart box and the chestnuts brought 20 cents a pint box. Green peppermint stalks were five cents a bunch and honey was 30 cents a box. Flower offerings included chiefly asters, marigolds and zinnias.

Pullet eggs brought 35 cents a dozen while regular to large sized eggs were marked 50 and 52 cents a dozen at most stands. Fryers continued at 53 cents per pound, dressed weight. Culinary products were in unusual supply with prices unchanged.

FOUR MORE JAP SHIPS ARE SUNK

Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Oct. 7 (AP)—Flying far-ranging bombers, army airmen whittled four more ships from the Japanese fleets in East Indies raids, today's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

October's shipping toll thus was enlarged to 23 ocean-going vessels sunk or damaged by planes, a good start toward bettering last month's bag of 210 surface craft sunk or damaged. "These figures are for the flying forces only and do not include Japanese ships destroyed by the U. S. Navy."

The day's communique said a mineslayer was sunk near Soela Island, east of Celebes, a 3,000-ton freighter transport probably was sunk off Celebes, a 1,000-ton vessel was sunk near Ambolia and a 3,000-ton merchantman was blown up by a direct hit.

Eight small surface craft also were sunk and 11 damaged.

Chanute, Kans., Oct. 7 (AP)—Thurman Hill, Democratic nominee for U. S. senator, was addressing a party meeting in the municipal auditorium when suddenly there was a crash.

A 500-pound chunk of cornice fell and was shattered on the sidewalk, no one was injured. "I didn't know I had so much volume," Hill remarked.

AACHEN BATTLE MAY LEAD INTO DECISIVE PUSH

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

The extent and fierceness of the battle which has grown out of the American First Army plunge through the outer crust of the powerful Siegfried line in the Aachen section encourages the belief the impending general Allied offensive on the western front will develop quickly.

There's also a feeling among military experts on both sides of the Atlantic that if October produces its ordinarily good fighting weather we may see decisive developments. Among those subscribing to this view is "Veritas," official war commentator for the British Ministry of Information in London. He has this to say of the expected offensive:

Defense Is Crust

"It will probably be stiff, unspectacular going at first, for there is a strong crust of German resistance based on skillfully prepared positions of great natural strength. But it is no more than a crust. There are a few veterans divisions of really good quality, but the newly formed divisions (or rather battle groups) consist of a stiffening of SS men (Elite Guardsmen) or Hitler Youth, while the remainder are of poor physique and morale and almost untrained. The military value of such reserves as there are inside Germany is negligible.

"Major operations (as distinct for the later stage of guerrilla warfare) may continue for some months yet, but October—which usually provides reasonably good campaigning weather in the west—is likely to see developments of decisive importance."

That sounds like good medicine from a well informed expert. Eisenhower has been rushing preparations for the all-out offensive. Now comes the battle of Aachen to invite a quick launching of the big drive. The Germans have thrown every available resource into the defense of this broad highway into the heart of the Reich. As a result there has developed one of the bloodiest engagements of the invasion.

Strain on Reserves

This added strain on Hitler's terribly depleted reserves naturally renders the rest of his 460 mile battlefield more vulnerable, and one would expect Eisenhower to take advantage of that fact by making a general attack to put heavy pressure on all points of the Nazi line. This would tend to keep the Germans off balance, and must result in uncovering a weak spot which could be pierced—unless indeed it already has been found in the Aachen area.

As our own Secretary of War Stimson says, the Nazis "do not have the full manpower needed for the defense job." The vastly superior Allied striking power insures victory.

However, we already have plenty of evidence that there's likely to be heavy fighting. Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons yesterday that "a good deal of blood is going to be shed in the next few months." That's bound to be so long as the Germans elect to fight with backs to the wall.

Yonkers, Oct. 7 (AP)—Ulrich Wiesendanger moved here 50 years ago, intending only to follow his profession of pharmacy.

He has served as city civil service commissioner, county coroner, state examiner of trust funds, under-sheriff and sheriff, and mayor. Now he is chairman of the local draft board.

GREAT PART OF PELOPONNESUS CLEAR OF NAZIS

Rome, Oct. 7 (AP)—A great part of the Peloponnesus in Greece now is clear of Germans. Allied headquarters announced today.

British ships bombarded the Greek island of Levitha on Oct. 5 and then landing parties captured the eastern half of the island. The German commander on the island surrendered at dusk after a further bombardment.

Levitha is a small island 43 miles west of the Turkish coast and approximately the same distance south and slightly west of the island of Samos the capture of which was announced in a communique issued by Greek headquarters in Cairo yesterday.

Allied planes strafed six German held airfields near Athens and Salonika on the Greek mainland in the face of heavy flak but met no fighter opposition.

Fliers Are Active

Conducting effective strafing attacks, U. S. 15th Air Force Mustangs and Lightnings countered German attempts to evacuate or supply troops by air and destroyed more than a score of enemy planes on the ground.

Four of the enemy airdromes attacked are within a 12-mile radius of Athens. Airdromes at Sedes just south of Salonika were strafed by Lightnings which hit parked aircraft, motor transport and a radio station.

Spitfires and Hurricanes of the Balkan air force swept the gulf of Corinth, shooting up a convoy of Germans attempting to escape from the Peloponnesus. Despite heavy flak, a Siebel ferry and a landing craft loaded with troops were left burning.

Italian-based Balkan air force planes also gave support to Allied troops in Albania where the German headquarters at Delvino was demolished by a salvo of rockets.

UNRRA TO LOSE CONTROL OVER POLISH RELIEF

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—United Nations officials now expect that the Soviet sponsored Polish Liberation committee may have full control of distributing relief supplies in liberated areas of Poland.

A United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration commission probably will be sent into the area to estimate needs and to work out plans for distribution.

A similar commission may go into the areas of Yugoslavia controlled by Marshal Tito, but the Yugoslav situation is less complicated since Tito, while he controls the Yugoslav Committee of Liberation, is also associated with King Peter's exiled government so that no question of jurisdiction arises.

UNRRA's predicament over Poland stems from the split between Russia and the Polish government in exile. Its solution is believed to lie in the common interest of feeding and clothing cold, hungry millions.

UNRRA officials wrestling with the problem here have fallen back on two stated principles of the organization: (1) Relief must be distributed without regard to race, religion or politics and (2) UNRRA may deal with whomever is in administrative control of an area in which supplies are to be distributed.

The exiled Polish government in London is a member of UNRRA as is Russia, but the Soviet-sponsored Polish Liberation committee with headquarters at Lublin is in control of the Polish territory liberated by Russian armies.

ALLIES POUND REICH TARGETS

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—Allied bombers crowded the skies in good weather over Germany today, piling up new destruction in the wake of more than 6,000 flights by bombers and fighters yesterday.

The Eighth Air force and the RAF sent up more than 3,000 heavy bombers in night and day operations against oil and industrial targets and airfields with Berlin, Dortmund, Bremen, Hamburg and Ludwigs-hafen among the targets.

Incomplete reports indicated the second tactical air force flew 1,500 sorties and the Ninth Air force flew another 1,500 yesterday in support of the U. S. First and Third armies.

Bad weather restricted operations of the Mediterranean Air force, but Germans in the Balkans were attacked during the night by bombers.

One formation of U. S. planes tangled with more than 30 Messerschmitts over Saarbrücken on the Third army front. It shot down four of the enemy at the cost of one American plane.

Airmen claimed the destruction of eight locomotives and 72 cars. Twenty-six tanks, armored vehicles and motor transport were reported damaged or destroyed. Railroads were cut in 22 places.

Planes Hit Japs In North Burma

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Oct. 7 (AP)—With strong air support, Allied forces today were reported laboriously wiping out Japanese entrenched in Bunkers and other strongpoints on the approaches to Tiddim in northwestern Burma.

The enemy now has abandoned defense of the "chocolate staircase" section of the Tiddim road which winds up 3,000 feet in 40 hairpin turns, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said.

JAPS CAPTURE CHINESE PORT

(By The Associated Press)

Foochow, capital of Fukien province and the last major port held by the Chinese on the East China coast, was captured by a Japanese invasion force three days ago, a Tokyo broadcast of a Japanese imperial communique said today.

There was no immediate confirmation of the claim from Allied sources, but the Chinese high command yesterday said Japanese troops had reached the northwest suburbs of the city, located across a narrow strait from the northern tip of the Japanese occupied island of Formosa.

Foochow, occupied by the Japanese previously in April 1939 and retaken by the Chinese in September the same year, was the target of Japanese troops landed in Fukien province in what Tokyo said was a drive to forestall American landings from the Pacific.

Meanwhile an Associated Press dispatch from Chungking said a Chinese communique announced Chinese troops had completed the reoccupation of an important position southwest of Lungling, in Yunnan province to the southwest, with the capture of a high peak.

Aircraft of the 14th U. S. air force bomber the Mangshieh area Oct. 5 causing fire and explosions and on Oct. 4 the 10th U. S. air force bombed a bridge at Wanting, as well as other targets in the vicinity, the Chinese communique said.

160,000 VIEW SMITH'S BODY IN CATHEDRAL

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Funeral services for former Gov. Alfred E. Smith were set for 11 a. m. today at St. Patrick's cathedral where the body of the "Happy Warrior" of American politics had lain in state overnight in an honor only once before accorded a layman.

That was in 1941 for Ignace Jan Paderewski, Polish pianist and statesman.

Smith, who died Wednesday, will be buried in Calvary cemetery beside his wife who died last May 4.

A solemn pontifical mass of requiem, preceded by a pontifical procession, will be celebrated by the Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, auxiliary bishop of New York. The Right Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, vicar general of the archdiocese, will preach the sermon. About two-thirds of the cathedral will be open to the public, the remainder being reserved for the family, close friends and business associates.

160,000 View Body

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will attend the services, with Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the Second Service Command, representing the President.

Doors of the great cathedral remained open until 1:30 a. m., today to permit more than 160,000 persons to file by the open bronze casket in which reposed the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate wearing the medal of the Knights of Malta on his chest and his hands clasping his Papal-blessed rosary.

It was the largest gathering of mourners since an estimated 130,000 viewed the remains of Patrick Cardinal Hayes in 1933 when the cathedral remained open until after midnight. The line of mourners which began entering the church at 2 p. m., at its peak yesterday stretched eight abreast around the entire block occupied by the cathedral.

The procession was halted briefly while Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his wife and members of the Smith family visited the church. Dewey issued a proclamation setting today as a day of public mourning and directed that all state offices be closed, with flags to be flown at half staff for a 30 day period.

Throughout the night an honor guard of the Catholic War Veterans was stationed at the bier.

Warsaw Residents

In Peril Again

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Polish telegraph agency reported today that Germany had ordered the evacuation of the entire Polish population of Warsaw, estimated at one million persons, and added "there is every reason to believe they intend to send a large proportion of these to concentration and labor camps."

The agency said the Polish government in London has made "an urgent and desperate appeal to all the United nations to help at all costs to prevent this new mass crime form being committed."

The English walnuts, a small variety, sold for 20 cents a quart box and the chestnuts brought 20 cents a pint box. Green peppermint stalks were five cents a bunch and honey was 30 cents a box. Flower offerings included chiefly asters, marigolds and zinnias.

Pullet eggs brought 35 cents a dozen while regular to large sized eggs were marked 50 and 52 cents a dozen at most stands. Fryers continued at 58 cents per pound, dressed weight. Culinary products were in unusual supply with prices unchanged.

FOUR MORE JAP SHIPS ARE SUNK

Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Oct. 7 (AP)—Flying far-ranging bombers, army airmen whittled four more ships from the Japanese fleets in East Indies raids, today's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

October's shipping toll thus was enlarged to 23 ocean-going vessels sunk or damaged by planes, a good start toward bettering last month's bag of 210 surface craft sunk or damaged. (These figures are for the flying forces only and do not include Japanese ships destroyed by the U. S. Navy).

The day's communique said a minelayer was sunk near Soela Island, east of Celebes, a 3,000-ton freighter transport probably was sunk off Celebes, a 1,000-ton vessel was sunk near Ambolia and a 3,000-ton merchantman was blown up by a direct hit.

Eight small surface craft also were sunk and 11 damaged.

AACHEN BATTLE MAY LEAD INTO DECISIVE PUSH

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

The extent and fierceness of the battle which has grown out of the American First Army plunge through the outer crust of the powerful Siegfried line in the Aachen section encourages the belief the impending general Allied offensive on the western front will develop quickly.

There's also a feeling among military experts on both sides of the Atlantic that if October produces its ordinarily good fighting weather we may see decisive developments. Among those subscribing to this view is "Veritas," official war commentator for the British Ministry of Information in London. He has this to say of the expected offensive:

Defense Is Crust

"It will probably be stiff, unspectacular going at first, for there is a strong crust of German resistance based on skillfully prepared positions of great natural strength. But it is no more than a crust. There are a few veterans divisions of really good quality, but the newly formed divisions (or rather battle groups) consist of a stiffening of SS men (Elite Guardsmen) or Hitler Youth, while the remainder are of poor physique and morale and almost untrained. The military value of such reserves as there are inside Germany is negligible.

"Major operations (as distinct for the later stage of guerrilla warfare) may continue for some months yet, but October—which usually provides reasonably good campaigning weather in the west—is likely to see developments of decisive importance."

That sounds like good medicine from a well informed expert. Eisenhower has been rushing preparations for the all-out offensive. Now comes the battle of Aachen to invite a quick launching of the big drive. The Germans have thrown every available resource into the defense of this broad highway into the heart of the Reich. As a result there has developed one of the bloodiest engagements of the invasion.

Strain on Reserves

This added strain on Hitler's terribly depleted reserves naturally renders the rest of his 460 mile battlefront more vulnerable, and one would expect Eisenhower to take advantage of that fact by making a general attack to put heavy pressure on all points of the Nazi line. This would tend to keep the Germans off balance, and must result in uncovering a weak spot which could be pierced—unless indeed it already has been found in the Aachen area.

As our own Secretary of War Stimson says, the Nazis "do not have the full manpower needed for the defense job." The vastly superior Allied striking power insures victory.

However, we already have plenty of evidence that there's likely to be heavy fighting. Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons yesterday that "a good deal of blood is going to be shed in the next few months." That's bound to be so long as the Germans elect to fight with backs to the wall.

At a meeting of the Biglerville school board Friday evening Mrs. Claude Miller was elected to teach the third grade. Previously Miss Alma Miller taught the third and fourth grades.

The addition of a new teacher was made to relieve the over-crowded conditions in the grades. There being no room in the grade school building for third grade students, arrangements have been made according to state recommendation and approval, to use the Bucher restaurant room on the lot adjoining the school.

The first, second and third grades will now occupy separate class rooms and the fourth, fifth and sixth grades will be departmentalized with the following staff of teachers: Miss Alma Miller, Miss Caroline Rex, Prof. Charles L. Yost and Francis Coulson.

The board decided that the junior and senior high school will remain closed next week in order to cooperate with the fruit harvesting which has been delayed because of inclement weather.

The board, feeling that the present generation of young people is being deprived of the type of education which it will need for post-war living, went on record as favoring more careful planning in the future in order to reduce the length of time during which the school is closed during harvest periods.

All members of the board attended the meeting.

160,000 VIEW SMITH'S BODY IN CATHEDRAL

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Funeral services for former Gov. Alfred E. Smith were set for 11 a. m. today at St. Patrick's cathedral where the body of the "Happy Warrior" of American politics had lain in state overnight in an honor only once before accorded a layman.

That was in 1941 for Ignace Jan Paderewski, Polish pianist and statesman.

Smith, who died Wednesday, will be buried in Calvary cemetery beside his wife who died last May 4.

A solemn pontifical mass of requiem, preceded by a pontifical procession, will be celebrated by the Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, auxiliary bishop of New York. The Right Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, vicar general of the archdiocese, will preach the sermon. About two-thirds of the cathedral will be open to the public, the remainder being reserved for the family, close friends and business associates.

160,000 View Body

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will attend the services, with Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the Second Service Command, representing the President.

Doors of the great cathedral remained open until 1:30 a. m., today to permit more than 160,000 persons to file by the open bronze casket in which reposed the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate wearing the medal of the Knights of Malta on his chest and his hands clasping his Papal-blessed rosary.

It was the largest gathering of mourners since an estimated 130,000 viewed the remains of Patrick Cardinal Hayes in 1933 when the cathedral remained open until after midnight. The line of mourners which began entering the church at 2 p. m., at its peak yesterday stretched eight abreast around the entire block occupied by the cathedral.

The procession was halted briefly while Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his wife and members of the Smith family visited the church. Dewey issued a proclamation setting today as a day of public mourning and directed that all state offices be closed, with flags to be flown at half staff for a 30 day period.

Throughout the night an honor guard of the Catholic War Veterans was stationed at the bier.

Warsaw Residents In Peril Again

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Polish telegraph agency reported today that Germany had ordered the evacuation of the entire Polish population of Warsaw, estimated at one million persons, and added "there is every reason to believe they intend to send a large proportion of these to concentration and labor camps."

The agency said the Polish government in London has made "an urgent and desperate appeal to all the United nations to help at all costs to prevent this new mass crime form being committed."

FOUR MORE JAP SHIPS ARE SUNK

Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Oct. 7 (AP)—Flying far-ranging bombers, army airmen whittled four more ships from the Japanese fleets in East Indies raids, today's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

October's shipping toll thus was enlarged to 23 ocean-going vessels sunk or damaged by planes, a good start toward bettering last month's bag of 210 surface craft sunk or damaged. (These figures are for the flying forces only and do not include Japanese ships destroyed by the U. S. Navy).

The day's communique said a minelayer was sunk near Soela Island, east of Celebes; a 3,000-ton freighter transport probably was sunk off Celebes; a 1,000-ton vessel was sunk near Ambona and a 3,000-ton merchantman was blown up by a direct hit.

Eight small surface craft also were sunk and 11 damaged.

Chanute, Kans., Oct. 7 (AP)—Thurman Hill, Democratic nominee for U. S. senator, was addressing a party meeting in the municipal auditorium when suddenly there was a crash.

A 500-pound chunk of cornice fell and was shattered on the sidewalk. no one was injured.

"I didn't know I had so much volume," Hill remarked.

YANKES NOW ONLY 12 MILES FROM BOLOGNA

Rome, Oct. 7 (AP)—Cracking again through lines which the enemy has been unable to stabilize, American Fifth Army troops have shown within 12 miles of Bologna, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Germans were reported working frantically to transport war materials from northern Italy to the Reich before their Italian front collapses.

One report said the Nazis were ripping up railway lines and sending the rails to Germany.

In order to gain more time for looting the rich Po valley and northern Italian industrial centers the Nazis were moving in reinforcements from other parts of their lines to impede the American drive northward, an official Fifth Army report declared.

Eight German divisions were reported opposing the Fifth Army assaults.

Other Allied Gains

The newest significant American gains were made along Highway 65, running north from Florence to Bologna. Farther east another Fifth Army thrust north from the mountain village of Sassoleone carried to within 10 miles of Castel San Pietro on the all-important Bologna-Rimini highway and rail routes.

Monte Vigese, 22 and a half miles southwest of Bologna, was taken by South African troops moving up the Pistoia-Bologna highway, headquarters said.

On the Eighth Army front Indian troops crossed the Punicino river in the Adriatic sector and drove the enemy out of San Martino and Di Egrolo, 14 miles southwest of Rimini, and captured the town of Sogliano.

Frank Fleishman has returned home after spending the past six weeks in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Himes, Sr., have returned after a trip to visit their sons who are stationed in the west with the armed forces. One son, Capt. William D. Himes, Randolph Field, Texas, is now a squadron commander there.

Mailing Rights May Be Limited

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Chairman Anderson (D-NM) of the House campaign expenditures investigating committee indicated today that Congress might be asked to put "what he termed 'reasonable limits' on his free mailing privileges.

This was the latest in a series of fast-breaking developments following a report filed by Anderson with his committee that 13 Republicans had mailed 3,116,000 copies of one political speech at government expense.

After President Roosevelt quoted the Anderson report in his Thursday radio address, Representative Taber (R-NY), retorted that "the number of speeches sent out under frank by the Democrats exceed the number sent out by the Republicans 'three to one.'"

Red Artillery Opens Way For New Assaults

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Moscow, Oct. 7 (AP)—Red Army artillery rained shells Friday on a screen of German machineguns in the Northbank lowland suburbs of Belgrade in preparation for a thrust across the Danube to free the Yugoslav capital, spread over the hills on the south side of the stream.

The Russians, now augmented by Yugoslav partisan forces, were gathering strength for the final assault after capture Thursday of the key rail junction of Pančevo, eight and nine-tenths miles northeast of Belgrade's city limits.

The Timisul river, flowing into the Danube at the western edge of Pančevo, formed a minor German defense line, but it also formed the edge of a potentially dangerous pocket for the enemy because it already has been outflanked by the Russians a few miles north.

Partisans Armed and Ready

Thousands of Partisans inside Belgrade were reported armed and ready to give blow for blow in the forthcoming battle to end the reign of terror under which the Germans have held the capital for 42 months.

"Except for reporting patrol activity, Moscow communicates remained silent about any action elsewhere on the eastern front. Berlin has reported beginning of a new Russian offensive in western Lithuania and invasion of the Baltic island of Saare."

The Russian campaign was not confined to freeing Belgrade. With Petrograd, 37 miles northward as a base, Soviet troops cleared the enemy from an area of several hundred square miles on the east side of the Tisza river.

Hungary 'in the Middle'

From the southern environs of Belgrade to the tip of Greece, German divisions, variously estimated by Allied military sources at eight to 25, appeared powerless to save their only remaining railway escape route.

Hungary was caught in the middle. She now is fighting Russian invasion assaults from three sides—north, east and south.

On the north, although nothing has been mentioned in the latest official reports, high Russian officials have confirmed that the Red army has won control of the central ridge of the Carpatho-Ukraine—the sector where Russian forces scored a breach in 1916 and nearly knocked Hungary out of the first World war.

Ceiling Price On Eggs Is Announced

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—OPA today fixed egg price ceilings and sales levels for the last two months of this year and all of 1945.

At retail the new prices are generally higher for the fall and lower for the spring than previous prices for these periods, OPA said, adding that the schedule does not increase the average annual cost of eggs to the public, "but permits the farmer to receive full parity for each month of the year."

OPA gave these examples of highest retail prices housewives will pay for a dozen grade A eggs:

No. Jan. Mar. July	50	51	49	55
New York	59	61	49	55
Pittsburgh	58	60	49	54

Two cents may be added to the above prices when eggs are sold in cartons.

STRIKES CLOSE 9 MORE MINES

Pittsburgh, Oct. 7 (AP)—Nine mines, producing an estimated 23,500 tons of coal daily, were shut down because of walkouts, today, throwing 5,750 miners into idleness.

Pickets from Vesta No. 5 mine of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. forced closure of the Vesta No. 4 and No. 6 pits of the same company yesterday, making 2,600 men idle.

The No. 5 walkout began Tuesday when miners objected to working with a weigh boss they described as "anti-union." The three Vesta pits have a daily production capacity of over 10,000 tons.

Also idle was J. and L's Sharps mine in Greene county, employing 170. The company said a mine foreman was killed accidentally Thursday night and that the stoppage likely was out of respect for him.

Three other Washington county mines—Ellsworth, Cokeburg and Marianna pits of Bethlehem Steel Co.—continued into a second week of idleness. About 7,500 tons are mined daily by the 2,150 men.

The Pittsburgh Coal Co. reported a strike of 370 men at its Crescent No. 1 mine, California, Pa., following the refusal of a chief lamp man to join the union.

The ninth mine down today was the Ringgold pit of Allegheny River Mining Co. at Timblin, Jefferson county, where 170 men were out.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir: I received my Independence Day Edition of The Gettysburg Times several days ago and I wish to thank you for it. I read it soon after receiving the paper and likewise the other fellows in the tent. We all enjoyed it very much. That edition came very much as a surprise. It was the first home paper I received in about eight months.

We have quite a few fellows from Pennsylvania here. In our battalion alone we have a lot. But as yet I haven't met any one that I knew before entering the service. They seem to be all around. I guess I haven't gotten to the right place yet.

I have had nearly 15 months in the Southwest Pacific. Here's hoping we get this job over in a hurry so that all the fellows can go back to the good old U. S. A. The news sounds very good and I don't think the war can last too much longer.

As you can see by my address I'm in an Engineer battalion. We are building air strips, roads, etc. I'm driving a truck at present. I like the job as well as can be expected. I know there are a lot worse jobs to be done. The roads

Mailing Rights May Be Limited

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Chairman Anderson (D-NM) of the House campaign expenditures investigating committee indicated today that Congress might be asked to put what he termed "reasonable limits" on its free mailing privileges.

This was the latest in a series of fast-breaking developments following a report filed by Anderson with his committee that 13 Republicans had mailed 3,116,000 copies of one political speech at government expense.

After President Roosevelt quoted the Anderson report in his Thursday radio address, Representative Taber (R-NY) retorted that "the number of speeches sent out under frank by the Democrats exceed the number sent out by the Republicans three to one."

Red Artillery Opens Way For New Assaults

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Moscow, Oct. 7 (AP)—Red Army artillery rained shells Friday on a screen of German machineguns in the Northbank lowland suburbs of Belgrade in preparation for a thrust across the Danube to free the Yugoslav capital, spread over the hills on the south side of the stream.

The Russians, now augmented by Yugoslav partisan troops, were gathering strength for the final assault after capture Thursday of the key rail junction of Pancevo, eight and nine-tenths miles northeast of Belgrade's city limits.

The Timis river, flowing into the Danube at the western edge of Pancevo, formed a minor German defense line, but it also formed the edge of a potentially dangerous pocket for the enemy because it already has been outflanked by the Russians a few miles north.

Thousands of Partisans inside Belgrade were reported armed and ready to give blow for blow in the forthcoming battle to end the reign of terror under which the Germans have held the capital for 42 months.

(Except for reporting patrol activity, Moscow communiques remained silent about any action elsewhere on the eastern front. Berlin has reported beginning of a new Russian offensive in western Lithuania and invasion of the Baltic island of Saare.)

The Russian campaign was not confined to freeing Belgrade. With Petrovgrad, 37 miles northward as a base, Soviet troops cleared the enemy from an area of several hundred square miles on the east side of the Tisza river.

Hungary "in the Middle" From the southern environs of Belgrade to the tip of Greece, German divisions, variously estimated by Allied military sources at eight to 25, appeared powerless to save their only remaining railway escape route.

Hungary was caught in the middle. She now is fighting Russian invasion assaults from three sides—north, east and south.

On the north, although nothing has been mentioned in the latest official reports, high Russian officers have confirmed that the Red army has won control of the central ridge of the Carpatho-Ukraine—the sector where Russian forces scored a breach in 1916 and nearly knocked Hungary out of the first World war.

STRIKES CLOSE 9 MORE MINES

Pittsburgh, Oct. 7 (AP)—Nine mines, producing an estimated 23,500 tons of coal daily, were shut down because of walkouts, today, throwing 5,750 miners into idleness.

Pickets from Vesta No. 5 mine of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. forced closure of the Vesta No. 4 and No. 6 pits of the same company yesterday, making 2,600 men idle.

The No. 5 walkout began Tuesday when miners objected to working with a weigh boss they described as "anti-union." The three Vesta pits have a daily production capacity of over 10,000 tons.

Also idle was J. and L.'s Shanopin mine in Greene county, employing 170. The company said a mining foreman was killed accidentally Thursday night and that the stoppage likely was out of respect for him.

Three other Washington county mines—Ellsworth, Cokeburg and Marianna pits of Bethlehem Steel Co.—continued into a second week of idleness. About 7,500 tons are mined daily by the 2,150 men.

The Pittsburgh Coal Co. reported a strike of 370 men at its Crescent No. 1 mine, California, Pa., followed the refusal of a chief lamp man to join the union.

The ninth mine down today was the Ringold pit of Allegheny River Mining Co. at Timblin, Jefferson county, where 170 men were out.

YANKEES NOW ONLY 12 MILES FROM BOLOGNA

Rome, Oct. 7 (AP)—Cracking again through lines which the enemy has been unable to stabilize, American Fifth Army troops have shoved within 12 miles of Bologna, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Germans were reported working frantically to transport war materials from northern Italy to the Reich before their Italian front collapses.

One report said the Nazis were ripping up railway lines and sending the rails to Germany.

In order to gain more time for looting the rich Po valley and northern Italian industrial centers the Nazis were moving in reinforcements from other parts of their lines to impede the American drive northward, an official Fifth Army report declared.

Eight German divisions were reported opposing the Fifth Army assaults.

Other Allied Gains

The newest significant American gains were made along Highway 65, running north from Florence to Bologna. Farther east another Fifth Army thrust north from the mountain village of Sassoleone carried to within 10 miles of Castel San Pietro on the all-important Bologna-Rimini highway and rail routes.

Monte Vigese, 22 and a half miles southwest of Bologna, was taken by South African troops moving up the Pistoia-Bologna highway, headquarters said.

On the Eighth Army front Indian troops crossed the Fiumicino river in the Adriatic sector and drove the enemy out of San Martino and Di Bagnolo, 14 miles southwest of Rimini, and captured the town of Sogliano.

STRIKES CLOSE 9 MORE MINES

Pittsburgh, Oct. 7 (AP) — Nine mines, producing an estimated 23,500 tons of coal daily, were shut down because of walkouts, today, throwing 5,750 miners into idleness.

Pickets from Vesta No. 5 mine of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. forced closure of the Vesta No. 4 and No. 6 pits of the same company yesterday, making 2,600 men idle.

The No. 5 walkout began Tuesday when miners objected to working with a weigh boss they described as "anti-union." The three Vesta pits have a daily production capacity of over 10,000 tons.

Also idle was J. and L.'s Shan-nonville mine in Greene county, employing 170. The company said a mine foreman was killed accidentally Thursday night and that the stoppage likely was out of respect for him.

Three other Washington county mines—Ellsworth, Cokeburg and Marianna pits of Bethlehem Steel Co.—continued into a second week of idleness. About 7,500 tons are mined daily by the 2,150 men.

The Pittsburgh Coal Co. reported a strike of 370 men at its Crescent No. 1 mine, California, Pa., followed the refusal of a chief lamp man to join the union.

The ninth mine down today was the Ringgold pit of Allegheny River Mining Co. at Timblin, Jefferson county, where 170 men were out.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I received my Independence Day Edition of The Gettysburg Times several days ago and I wish to thank you for it. I read it soon after receiving the paper and likewise the other fellows in the tent. We all enjoyed it very much. That edition came very much as a surprise. It was the first home paper I received in about eight months.

We have quite a few fellows from Pennsylvania here. In our battalion alone we have a lot. But as yet I haven't met any one that I knew before entering the service. They seem to be all around. I guess I haven't gotten to the right place yet.

I have had nearly 15 months in the Southwest Pacific. Here's hoping we get this job over in a hurry so that all the fellows can go back to the good old U. S. A. The news sounds very good and I don't think the war can last too much longer.

As you can see by my address I'm in an Engineer battalion. We are building air strips, roads, etc. I'm driving a truck at present. I like the job as well as can be expected. I know there are a lot worse jobs to be done. The roads here are being put in good shape in comparison to what they were which makes traveling much easier.

I don't expect to be at this base long as we are kept moving. When a new base is being established the engineers are on hand as we must have the air strips in shape and that is our job.

Must close now. Thanks again for the Independence Edition.

Yours truly,
Cpl. Raymond W. Smith.

Dear Sir:

I am taking time out from my work to write and give my thanks, and let you know how deeply I appreciate The Gettysburg Times being sent to me. Every time I receive it the very first thing I look for is "With Our Service Men" to see if anyone is near my area. So far I have had no luck but one of these days I'll run across someone I know from home, I hope.

After I look over the paper I let some of my buddies take a look. I always put the paper in the day room for the other boys to read. Everyone sends their regards and thanks.

As you all probably know there is nothing like the home town paper. Although it does reach me rather late it is news to me and the date means very little.

I am now stationed in Italy. So far I have been rather fortunate being in this theater for eight months and not having a scratch to mean anything. Of all the cities ors to this section where they have many relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Stoebner, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wentz and Edgar Wentz, Lineboro, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Baker, York, were among recent visitors to the home of Mrs. Jere Lau.

The Rev. and Mrs. Richard E. Shaffer and son, Bobby, have returned from Jefferson where they were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Nace.

Plans have been made by the local chapter of the P. F. A. to hold a roller skating party at the Forest Park rink, Hanover, later this month.

Just Folks
TOO MUCH
We eat too much; we drink too much.
But few are they who think too much.
We dance too much; we play too much.
But few are they who pray too much.
Men brag too much, and swear too much.
But few are they who care too much.
In idleness men live too much.
But few are they who give too much.
We ask too much; we yearn too much.
But never mortals learn too much.
We tread our selfish ways too much.
But few give praise to God too much.

CONTRAST—ISLAND AND CITY
Upon my small island this summer I lived an individual life, conforming it to the natural surroundings about me. Human communion there was, for I had my faithful housekeeper and a friend who came over frequently to offer his aid and companionship, but there was perfect harmony, no matter what the plan of the day.
With every facility for keeping abreast of the daily news, and with encouraging letters reaching me every day from all over the continent, I did not feel isolated. Also I had my wild flowers, my tame squirrels—who taught me many a lesson worth remembering—and all outdoors—the aroma of a variety of pines, the sunshine of each day, and the sky at night, with its many mysterious inhabitants of billions of stars.
Being isolated, and living in a tiny realm of my own, I sought only to conform to the natural laws about me, which, of course, have always been the foundation for all the laws of man. There is no policing in Nature, and no world wars. Each inhabitant has something essentially important of his own to attend to. There is greed and jealousy, to be sure, but it is kept fairly well under control.
There were the nights—so silent, with the cooling sundown, bathing the last fading embers of the day's ether in gray garb—warm and colorful. And the invigorating mornings, also soft still, with the voices of birds, happily over their sleep of the night. The simple food and the clean air, the give of the earth over mossy paths and later in each day the song of the wind, caressing acres of forest trees, made each day a poem in itself.
Back in the city I have to become acclimated again! Noises, confusion, hurrying of busy streets, anxiety on people's faces, thousands of motor cars sounding and giving off their tails to an already heavy-laden air.
The city is for commerce, money-making, worry and habitual strife, even with many of its glorious opportunities for mental and spiritual growth—its peace is limited.

Pumping It In Vain
Every now and again I am reminded of the fact that many people are just sufficiently conversant with cars to be victims of the belief that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. It came home to me quite forcibly the other day when a friend called to say that he couldn't get started and that inspection of the carburetor showed there was no gas in the float bowl. What really puzzled him was that pumping on the accelerator pedal failed to help matters. He had always believed that this action of the accelerator served to shoot raw gasoline in the mixing chamber of the carburetor. For some reason he had not stopped to consider that there can be no results from the pumping so long as there is no gasoline in the float bowl of the carburetor. It is from this source that the little accelerator pump gets its supply of fuel.

Explaining Some Don'ts
You have probably been told not to flush out the crankcase with kerosene, but did you know that this little "don't" is based on the fact that because there are so many passages for oil throughout the engine some of the kerosene would be trapped in the system only to dilute the new oil?

Then there's the little tip about using No. 00 sandpaper for cleaning the commutator of a generator, or starter-motor, never emery paper. Did you know that emery paper is taboo because it leaves metallic dust that would short circuit the generator under certain conditions?

Meeting That "Ping"
While we are obliged to use lower octane gasoline it will be necessary to revise our method of climbing hills as well as the use of lower gears. To check sharp pinging try to climb hills faster. That is, get up speed before approaching a hill, and if the grade is steep always shift to second gear before being forced to. Much of the trouble at present lies in climbing too slowly. If forced to stop on an upgrade it will be easier on the engine to finish the climb in low rather than to try to get into the higher gears.

Second gear on modern cars is a relatively high gear intended for speedy performance in traffic. Thus it is a poor gear for use when trying to pick up from slow speed. You may have noticed that when just creeping along in second, and trying to accelerate, the engine knocks almost as badly as it does under the conditions in high. At such times drop back to low.

With the neglect shock absorbers are receiving these days I may be criticised for suggesting that a sensation of the car having a broken spring may be nothing that concerns the shock absorbers. Consideration should, instead, be given to possibility that there is a rusted spring shackle. This places restriction on spring action and is certain to make the car ride as if the springs themselves were not working right.

"I think we have come to overlook the shackles through assuming that all of them today are of the rubber type. There still are plenty of the metal kind, and even some that use rubber for insulation may be cramped because of excessive tightening."

If you are examining the ignition cables for breaks in the insulation try not to bend them any more than is necessary. I was watching a friend of mine making this inspection the other day and found that he inadvertently cracked insulation on three of the cables. This means, of course, that he'll have to replace the wires, for those cracks will encourage escape of high tension current.

Another thing that will save cable insulation damage is to prevent exposing it to heated parts of the engine. Also space carefully to prevent chafing.

There have been so many cases of high reading motor heat gauges it is possible that so many engines can actually be overheating, considering the vast amount of effort expended by owners in checking into all possible causes of overheating. My suspicion is that some of the gauges are inaccurate. Here's how to make sure.

First disconnect the lead at the engine terminal. Then remove the heat unit from the engine. Now reconnect the lead to the gauge and ground the case of the gauge to the car chassis. Draw some hot water from a faucet, check its temperature with a bath thermometer, and then test the engine unit of the heat gauge by dunking it in this water. If the gauge on the dash goes way up you'll know that the unit or the gauge is defective.

No Need To Worry
So much of a car's behavior points to defects or beginnings of trouble that it should be a relief to know that a few things you may see from time to time are essentially nothing to worry about. One of these is appearance of wax oozing from an ignition coil. This doesn't mean that the coil has gone bad or that it is in any way weakened. Another false alarm is loud squealing from under the hood when the car first starts out. This is usually due to a little glaze on the edge of the fan belt. Engines equipped with hydraulic valve lifters often make quite a racket when first started, due to

there not being enough oil inside the lifters.

Revising A Rule
One of the simplest of car electrical tests is to note if the lights dim when the engine is being cranked. This is intended to prove that the battery is weak. At this time of year, however, the dimming is more likely due to the oil being too heavy for sudden drop in temperature. Take this into account before jumping to the conclusion that the battery is due for a recharge, but bear in mind that it doesn't require many of these starting struggles to put the battery on the sick list. It will help the situation materially if, when you note that the engine is offering more than usual resistance, you will wait a few minutes before trying again. It is surprising how much pep a battery regains after heavy for sudden drop in temperature. Being in the period of the year jumping to the conclusion that the

CONTRAST—ISLAND AND CITY

Upon my small island this summer I lived an individual life, conforming it to the natural surroundings about me. Human communion there was, for I had my faithful housekeeper and a friend who came over frequently to offer his aid and companionship, but there was perfect harmony, no matter what the plan of the day.

With every facility for keeping abreast of the daily news, and with encouraging letters reaching me every day from all over the continent, I did not feel isolated. Also I had my wild flowers, my tame squirrels—who taught me many a lesson worth remembering—and all outdoors—the aroma of a variety of pines, the sunshine of each day, and the sky at night, with its many mysterious inhabitants of billions of stars.

Being isolated, and living in a tiny realm of my own, I sought only to conform to the natural laws about me, which, of course, have always been the foundation for all the laws of man. There is no policing in Nature, and no world wars. Each inhabitant has something essentially important of his own to attend to. There is greed and jealousy, to be sure, but it is kept fairly well under control.

There were the nights—so silent, with the cooling sundown, bathing the last fading embers of the day's ether in gypsy garb—warm and colorful. And the invigorating mornings, also softly still, with the voices of birds, happily over their sleep of the night. The simple food, and the clean air, the give of the earth over mossy paths, and later in each day the song of the wind, caressing acres of forest trees, made each day a poem in itself.

Back in the city I have to become acclimated again! Noises, confusion, hurrying of busy streets, anxiety on people's faces, thousands of motor cars sounding and giving off their taints to an already heavy-burdened air.

The city is for commerce, money-making, worry and habitual strife, even with many of its glorious opportunities for mental and spiritual gain—but its peace is limited.

With some well meaning motorists after all is said and done, more is said than done.

Pumping It In Vain

Every now and again I am reminded of the fact that many people are just sufficiently conversant with cars to be victims of the belief that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. It came home to me quite forcibly the other day when a friend called to say that he couldn't get started and that inspection of the carburetor showed there was no gas in the float bowl. What really puzzled him was that pumping on the accelerator pedal failed to help matters. He had always believed that this action of the accelerator served to shoot raw gasoline in the mixing chamber of the carburetor. For some reason he had not stopped to consider that there can be no results from the pumping so long as there is no gasoline in the float bowl of the carburetor. It is from this source that the little accelerator pump gets its supply of fuel.

Explaining Some Don'ts

You have probably been told not to flush out the crankcase with kerosene, but did you know that this little "don't" is based on the fact that because there are so many passages for oil throughout the engine some of the kerosene would be trapped in the system only to dilute the new oil?

Then there's the little tip about using No. 00 sandpaper for cleaning the commutator of a generator or starter motor, never emery paper. Did you know that emery paper is taboo because it leaves metallic dust that would short circuit the generator under certain conditions?

Meeting That "Ping"

While we are obliged to use lower octane gasoline it will be necessary to revise our method of climbing hills as well as the use of lower gears. To check sharp pinging try to climb hills faster. That is, get up speed before approaching a hill, and if the grade is steep always shift to second gear before being forced to. Much of the trouble at present lies in climbing too slowly. If forced to stop on an upgrade it will be easier on the engine to finish the climb in low rather than to try to get into the higher gears.

Second gear on modern cars is a relatively high gear, intended for speedy performance in traffic. Thus it is a poor gear for use when trying to pick up from slow speed. You may have noticed that when just creeping along in second, and trying to accelerate, the engine knocks almost as badly as it does under the conditions in high. At such times drop back to low.

"With the neglect shock absorbers are receiving these days I may be criticised for suggesting that a sensation of the car having a broken spring may be nothing that concerns the shock absorbers. Consideration should, instead, be given to possibility that there is a rusted spring shackle. This places restriction on spring action and is certain to make the car ride as if the springs themselves were not working right.

"I think we have come to overlook the shackles through assuming that all of them today are of the rubber type. There still are plenty of the metal kind, and even some that use rubber for insulation may be cramped because of excessive tightening."

If you are examining the ignition cables for breaks in the insulation try not to bend them any more than is necessary. I was watching a friend of mine making this inspection the other day and found that he inadvertently cracked insulation on three of the cables. This means, of course, that he'll have to replace the wires, for these cracks will encourage escape of high tension current. Another thing that will save cable insulation damage is to prevent exposing it to heated parts of the engine. Also space carefully to prevent chafing.

There have been so many cases of high reading motor heat gauges it is possible that so many engines can actually be overheating, considering the vast amount of effort expended by owners in checking into all possible causes of overheating. My suspicion is that some of the gauges are inaccurate. Here's how to make sure.

there not being enough oil inside the lifters.

Revising A Rule

One of the simplest of car electrical tests is to note if the lights dim when the engine is being cranked. This is intended to prove that the battery is weak. At this time of year, however, the dimming is more likely due to the oil being too heavy for sudden drop in temperature. Take this into account before jumping to the conclusion that the battery is due for a recharge, but bear in mind that it doesn't require many of these starting struggles to put the battery on the sick list. It will help the situation materially if, when you note that the engine is offering more than usual resistance, you will wait a few minutes before trying again. It is surprising how much pep a battery regains after even so short a rest period.

Draw some hot water from a faucet, check its temperature with a bath thermometer, and then test the engine unit of the heat gauge by dunking it in this water. If the gauge on the dash goes way up you'll know that the unit or the gauge is defective.

No Need To Worry
So much of a car's behavior points to defects or beginnings of trouble it should be a relief to know that a few things you may see from time to time are essentially nothing to worry about. One of these is appearance of wax oozing from an ignition coil. This doesn't mean that the coil has gone bad or that it is in any way weakened. Another false alarm is loud squealing from under the hood when the car first starts out. This is usually due to a little glaze on the edge of the fan belt. Engines equipped with hydraulic valve lifters often make quite a racket when first started, due to

Revising A Rule

One of the simplest of car electrical tests is to note if the lights dim when the engine is being cranked. This is intended to prove that the battery is weak. At this time of year, however, the dimming is more likely due to the oil being too heavy for sudden drop in temperature. Take this into account before jumping to the conclusion that the bear in mind that it doesn't require many of these starting struggles to put the battery on the sick list. It will help the situation materially if, when you note that the engine is offering more than usual resistance, you will wait a few minutes before trying again. It is surprising how much pep a battery regains after even so short a rest period.

Chapter 27

Dr. Merrill put away his stethoscope, looked at Aunt Sarah and went out into the hall where Susan and Jane's mother were holding consultation about Aunt Sarah's breakfast.

"She can have anything she wants," Merrill said. "And she can dress and be up this afternoon. Can I drop you at your office, Susan?"

"You certainly can."

"Funny thing," Merrill mused as they drove down Main street a few minutes later, "how she's picked up since that murder. That was a real heart attack she had when it looked like the factory was starting. And she didn't rally from it until this Scarborough trouble."

"Don't say that!"

Merrill smiled wryly at Susan's violent protest. "Then you've noticed it too."

"Maybe it's just coincidence—maybe—"

"It's an eye opener to me on how twenty years of concentrated hate can finally take charge of the body." He patted Susan's hand as he reached across her to open the door. "That's why I'm glad you didn't carry on the feud, Susan. Love folks, don't hate 'em. It's healthier."

Two reporters from Detroit dailies were waiting for her in her office. They wanted some inside dope on this Scarborough guy.

Susan bridled at their attitude, and they seemed highly delighted. They told her then about the comb that had been found the day before up by the boathouse—a comb just like she had in her hair now.

Thorny advised her to tell them all she knew. She had nothing to hide. But Susan pleaded. Couldn't they please keep her name out of it?

"Sorry, sister, not a chance," they assured her. "Too big a case. Now the way we have it doped out is this. The Scarbroughs both swore this boathouse is pretty private. No one comes there. And there being some kind of trouble between your families, you took to meeting young Scarborough in secret."

"All right, I did meet Erich there. But I was at home the night of the murder. So can't you forget it?"

"Forget it? Sorry sis, guess you don't get the angle. The son and daughter of feuding families—clandestine meeting—why it's Romeo and Juliet stuff, see? It's a gold mine!"

Susan was white. "Aunt Sarah—she whispered, 'Oh Thorny, it'll kill her.'"

"If it does kill her, Susan, it'll be because she wants it to kill her. Now come on. We got work to do. There won't be a soul show up for factory now. We've got to call that factory opening off."

For the next two days Thorny kept Susan mercilessly at her typewriter or on the phone. There was nothing to hide from the town now. Not after every Detroit paper had built up the story of the modern Romeo and Juliet of Midvale, Susan and Jane's mother contrived with Merrill to keep Aunt Sarah in bed and all neighbors and newspapers away.

Julie was pale these evenings and her eyes were shadowed, otherwise she was unchanged. Her days were spent with Erich and the Detroit attorney Thorny had asked to help him.

"Mr. Jamison says it may take time," she told Susan as they sat together before the small blazing fire in the library one night waiting for Erich to finish a conference with Thorny, "but the murderer will be tracked down."

"Does he think Erich will be indicted for murder?"

"He's afraid so."

A chill ran through Susan if the murderer weren't tracked down. For days she had felt the town's rising satisfaction, its burgeoning conviction that Justice, cheated once by the powerful old Scarbrough, was now to be avenged.

Julie's voice suddenly broke into her fears, trembling with violent feeling. "Susan, if they indict him for murder... it's my fault!"

"Nonsense, Julie."

"It's my fault," Julie repeated exorably. "I had to come back here. I had to start that factory. Erich didn't want to come. Oh, Susan, if, in trying to clear my father's name, I've sacrificed my son—"

Aunt Sarah was alone, sitting up in her bed. She said she had sent Jane's mother home because she wanted to see Susan. There were spots of color on her cheeks. Her black eyes blazed.

"You haven't been at your office. You've been up at Scarbrough House," she said flatly as the girl entered.

Susan sank into the chair beside the bed. "What is it, Aunt Sarah? What's happened?"

Aunt Sarah reached beneath her pillow and brought out a folded newspaper. Susan caught her breath. It was a Detroit paper. As Aunt Sarah unfolded it with a flourish, she caught a glimpse of pictures of herself and Erich on the front page.

"Where did you get it?"

Aunt Sarah's voice was sardonic. "The Peters boy was working in the garden. I called him to the window and sent him for it. I see now why you've been keeping the papers from me." She began to breathe with sudden effort. "I warned you. I begged you to keep away from the Scarbroughs!"

Susan turned and faced Aunt Sarah. "Please," she said quietly, her fists clenching at her sides. "Aunt Sarah, believe me, Erich didn't—kill—him."

Aunt Sarah's laugh was wild. "Of course he killed him. The man came to expose the Scarbroughs as he threatened in that letter. So Erich killed him. Murder means nothing to a Scarbrough! And now you—Susan Corboy—it says it here. You're the sweetheart of a murderer!"

Susan turned and ran into the hall. She was reaching for the re-

If there is one bald tire on your car now is the time to be especially careful, for any tendency toward sliding will then automatically become a skid. You have not merely forward sliding or the car to contend with but a sideways slide as well. With four wheel brakes it is safer to have the bald tire on a rear wheel than on a front one. Reason is that a front wheel skid is more than most drivers know how to cope with, for it invariably develops on a turn.

It's A Motor Question

Q. Oil mileage is low on my car. Would you advise new rings? D. W. A. I wouldn't attempt to answer this without knowing more about the engine's condition. Oil vapor could be drawn into the cylinders past worn and leaky valve guides. The crankcase breathers may be clogged. Connecting rod bearings may be worn so that excess oil is tossed to the cylinders.

Q. I am about at the end of my rope trying to check overheating. Enclosed is a list of the things that have been checked to date. Have I overlooked anything? F. H. McB. A. The list says nothing about cleaning the air passages through the radiator core. Take a look. Maybe these passages are clogged with dead insects and bits of leaves.

Q. I used my car around a farm this past summer, and while I have tried to keep it well tuned up, the gas mileage has taken a drop. There isn't much carbon in the cylinders, timing is well advanced and valves have been favored with special oils. E. T. N. A. The first thing to check would be the air cleaner on top of the carburetor intake. This may be clogged with dirt. By reducing the proportion of air the gas mileage naturally becomes too rich. The carburetor on your car is not designed to compensate for this reduction in air.

Q. I have been told that if I will keep the tires of my car inflated to 36 pounds I will save a lot of gas. In fact, my informant said that with the tires down to 20 pounds I would use 31 per cent more gas than with them at 36 pounds. Is this true? H. E. B. A. This is theoretical and based on the difference in rolling resistance of tires under and over inflated. Actually to drive faster you would use extra gas that would offset savings due to easier rolling. And don't forget that overinflation wears the center strip of the tire tread.

ceiver when the phone rang. Number six answered it.

"Hello!" It was Chick Malloy's gay voice. "Is this Julie?"

Louisville Beats Baltimore Orioles

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 7 (AP)—Louisville's American Association Colonels will clash with the Baltimore Orioles in the second contest of the Junior World series here tonight after edging the international league squad 5 to 3 in the opener.

The Colonels win last night placed them one up on the Baltimore club in the four-out-of-seven series.

Hurter Mel Deutsch, absent from the Colonels lineup while his teammates, Big Jim Wilson and Catcher Fred Walters sparked the Orioles defeat in the starter, probably will be assigned to the mound duties tonight. Frank Embree is Baltimore's probable starting pitcher.

Dewey To Attack Conversion Plans

En Route with Dewey to Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 7 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey planned today to link an attack on some of the groups which are backing a fourth term for President Roosevelt with new criticism of what he has called the administration's lack of preparations for postwar reconversion of industry to civilian pursuits.

As the Republican presidential nominee's special train rolled toward Charleston, an assistant told reporters that a major campaign speech there at 9:45 p. m. EWT, tonight (CBS) would deal in part with the problem of changing warplants over to peacetime production.

Dewey's staff was busy digging into its records for what the New York governor announced would be a "quite open" discussion of the means he said the President is employing in attempting to continue in office.

Chapter 27

Dr. Merrill put away his telescope, looked at Aunt Sarah and went into the hall where Susan and Jane's mother were holding consultation about Aunt Sarah's breakfast.

"She can have anything she wants," Merrill said. "And all she wants of it. And she can dress and be up this afternoon. Can I drop you at your office, Susan?"

"You certainly can."

"Funny thing," Merrill mused as they drove down Main street a few minutes later, "how she's picked up since that murder. That was a real heart attack she had when it looked like the factory was starting. And she didn't rally from it until this Scarborough trouble."

"Don't say that!"

Merrill smiled wryly at Susan's violent protest. "Then you've noticed it too."

"Maybe it's just coincidence—maybe."

"It's an eye opener to me on how twenty years of concentrated hate can finally take charge of the body."

He patted Susan's hand as he reached across her to open the door. "That's why I'm glad you didn't carry on the feud, Susan. Love folks, don't hate 'em. It's healthier."

Two reporters from Detroit dailies were waiting for her in her office. They wanted some inside dope on this Scarborough guy.

Susan bridled at their attitude, and they seemed highly delighted. They told her then about the comb that had been found the day before up by the boathouse—a comb just like she had in her hair now.

Thorny advised her to tell them all she knew. She had nothing to hide. But Susan pleaded. Couldn't they please keep her name out of it?

"Sorry, sister, not a chance," they assured her. "Too big a case. Now the way we have it doped out is this. The Scarbroughs both swore this boathouse is pretty private. No one comes there. And there bein' some kind of trouble between your families, you took to meeting young Scarborough in secret."

"All right, I did meet Erich there. But I was at home the night of the murder, so can't you forget it?"

"Forget it? Sorry sis, guess you don't get the angle. The son and daughter of feuding families—clandestine meeting—why it's Romeo and Juliet stuff, see? It's a gold mine!"

Susan was white. "Aunt Sarah—she whispered. "Oh Thorny, it'll kill her."

"If it does kill her, Susan, it'll be because she wants it to kill her. Now come on. We got work to do. There won't be a soul show up for work now. We've got to call that factory opening off."

For the next two days Thorny kept Susan mercilessly at her typewriter or on the phone. There was nothing to hide from the town now. Not after every Detroit paper had built up the story of the modern Romeo and Juliet of Midvale. Susan and Jane's mother contrived with Merrill to keep Aunt Sarah in bed and all neighbors and newspapers away.

Julie was pale these evenings and her eyes were shadowed, otherwise she was unchanged. Her days were spent with Erich and the Detroit attorney Thorny had asked to help him.

"Mr. Jamison says it may take time," she told Susan as they sat together before the small blazing fire in the library one night waiting for Erich to finish a conference with Thorny, "but the murderer will be tracked down."

"Does he think Erich will be indicted for murder?"

"He's afraid so."

A chill ran through Susan. If the murderer weren't tracked down... For days she had felt the town's rising satisfaction, its hardening conviction that Justice, cheated once by the powerful old Scarbrough, was now to be avenged.

Julie's voice suddenly broke into her fears, trembling with violent feeling. "Susan, if they indict him for murder... it's my fault!"

"Nonsense, Julie."

"It's my fault," Julie repeated in exasperation. "I had to come back here. I had to start that factory. Erich didn't want to come. Oh, Susan, if, in trying to clear my father's name, I've sacrificed my son—"

Aunt Sarah was alone, sitting up in her bed. She said she had sent Jane's mother home because she wanted to see Susan. There were spots of color on her cheeks. Her black eyes blazed.

"You haven't been at your office. You've been up at Scarbrough House," she said flatly as the girl entered.

Susan sank into the chair beside the bed. "What is it, Aunt Sarah? What's happened?"

Aunt Sarah reached beneath her pillow and brought out a folded newspaper. Susan caught her breath. It was a Detroit paper. As Aunt Sarah unfolded it with a flourish, she caught a glimpse of pictures of herself and Erich on the front page.

"Where did you get it?"

Aunt Sarah's voice was sardonic. "The Peters boy was working in the garden. I called him to the window and sent him for it. I see now why you've been keeping the papers from me." She began to breathe with sudden effort. "I warned you, I begged you to keep away from the Scarbroughs!"

Susan turned and faced Aunt Sarah. "Please," she said quietly, her fists clenching at her sides. "Aunt Sarah, believe me, Erich—didn't—kill—him."

Aunt Sarah's laugh was wild. "Of course he killed him. The man came to expose the Scarbroughs as he threatened in that letter. So Erich killed him. Murder means nothing to a Scarbrough! And now you—Susan Corboy—it says it here. You're the sweetheart of a murderer!"

Susan turned and ran into the hall. She was reaching for the re-

when wet leaves on the roadway present special skidding danger, it doesn't pay to be too confident of the new reap tread on your car's tires. Wet leaves are a hazard to any car, regardless of its tires. But it is still true that bald tires are more likely to encourage wheels to lock and slide.

If there is one bald tire on your car now is the time to be especially careful, for any tendency toward sliding will then automatically become a skid. You have not merely forward sliding of the car to contend with but a sideways slide as well. With four wheel brakes it is safer to have the bald tire on a rear wheel than on a front one. Reason is that a front wheel skid is more than most drivers know how to cope with, for it invariably develops on a turn.

It's A Motor Question

Q. Oil mileage is low on my car. Would you advise new rings? D. W.

A. I wouldn't attempt to answer this without knowing more about the engine's condition. Oil vapor could be drawn into the cylinders past worn and leaky valve guides. The crankcase breathers may be clogged. Connecting rod bearings may be worn so that excess oil is tossed to the cylinders.

Q. I am about at the end of my rope trying to check overheating. Enclosed is a list of the things that have been checked to date. Have I overlooked anything? F. H. McB.

A. The list says nothing about cleaning the air passages through the radiator core. Take a look. Maybe these passages are clogged with dead insects and bits of leaves.

Q. I used my car around a farm this past summer, and while I have tried to keep it well tuned up, the gas mileage has taken a drop. There isn't much carbon in the cylinders, timing is well advanced and valves have been favored with special oils. E. T. N.

A. The first thing to check would be the air cleaner on top of the carburetor intake. This may be clogged with dirt. By reducing the proportion of air the gas mileage naturally becomes too rich. The carburetor on your car is not designed to compensate for this reduction in air.

Q. I have been told that if I will keep the tires of my car inflated to 36 pounds I will save a lot of gas. In fact, my informant said that with the tires down to 20 pounds I would use 31 per cent more gas than with them at 36 pounds. Is this true? H. E. B.

A. This is theoretical and based on the difference in rolling resistance of tires under and over inflated. Actually to drive faster you would use extra gas that would offset savings due to easier rolling. And don't forget that overinflation wears the center strip of the tire tread.

Dewey To Attack Conversion Plans

En Route with Dewey to Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 7 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey planned today to link an attack on some of the groups which are backing a fourth term for President Roosevelt with new criticism of what he has called the administration's lack of preparations for postwar reconversion of industry to civilian pursuits.
As the Republican presidential nominee's special train rolled toward Charleston, an assistant told reporters that a 9:45 p. m. EWT, tonight (CBS) would deal in part with the problem of changing warplants over to peacetime production.
Dewey's staff was busy digging into its records for what the New York governor announced would be a "quite open" discussion of the means he said the President is employing in attempting to continue in office.

Louisville Beats Baltimore Orioles

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 7 (AP)—Louisville's American Association Colonels will clash with the Baltimore Orioles in the second contest of the Junior World series here tonight after edging the international league squad 5 to 3 in the opener.

The Colonels last night placed them one up on the Baltimore club in the four-out-of-seven series.

Hurler Mel Deusch, absent from the Colonels lineup while his teammates, Big Jim Wilson and Catcher Fred Walters sparked the Orioles defeat in the starter, probably will be assigned to the mound duties tonight. Frank Embree is Baltimore's probable starting pitcher.

NIGHTHAWKS IN 27-0 DECISION OVER MAROONS

An improved but still outclassed Gettysburg high school football team dropped its third straight game of the season Friday evening to the Hanover High Nighthawks at Hanover in a Southern Pennsylvania conference game before a large crowd by a 27-0 score.

Bud Musselman, leading scorer of the conference last year, got off to a flying start in his first league game to retain his title by scoring, all of the Hanover touchdowns. Yost finished the scoring with three placement boots.

Hanover drove from its own 29-yard line to score in less than five minutes of play after the opening whistle. After Tonsel returned the kickoff to his 36 the Maroons were soon forced to kick to the Nighthawks' 29. Two straight first downs were recorded and then Musselman ran around his own right end for 29 yards and a tally. Yost missed his only conversion attempt of the evening after the touchdown.

Miscellaneous Costs

A few plays later Hanover tallied again when a bad pass from center was recovered on the Maroons' four-yard stripe from where Musselman went off right tackle to score.

Coach Dry's boys put up their best brand of ball in the second quarter and held their opponents scoreless. Midway in the period Goodfellow intercepted a pass on the Gettysburg 39. Musselman and Yost combined to reel off two first downs to reach the 12 but the drive stopped there as the Maroons threw up a gallant defense. Gelselman lost four yards at end and Musselman picked up four on another end try. Musselman failed to gain on a reverse and a grounded pass followed to give the locals the ball on the 13. The half ended as Haehnlen punted.

Coach Reese's outfit took the opening second half kickoff and staged an uninterrupted touchdown drive from the 37-yard line. Baublitz, Markle, Yost and Musselman turned in a bit of nice ground gaining in the attack with Musselman finally going over from the four-yard mark.

Gettysburg flashed some offensive power on receiving the next kickoff with Haehnlen returning to the 23. Haehnlen picked up 12 yards around right end for a first down. Two tries by Haehnlen and one by Tonsel were good for another first down on the Maroons' 49. Hanover then braced and Haehnlen was forced to punt to Gelselman who returned to his 37.

Intercept Pass

The Maroons held their own with their opponents for the better part of the last period but late in the round Yost intercepted a pass and got back to the Maroons' 16 before he was dropped. Two tries by Musselman netted 12 yards. Yost hit the line but failed to gain. On the next play Musselman crashed ever for his forth touchdown of the evening.

Hanover recorded nine first downs while the Maroons made four. The Nighthawks completed one of seven passes while Gettysburg made good on four of 10 with three being intercepted.

Fred Haehnlen played a nice game for the Maroons while marked improvement was shown by the entire team.

Next Friday evening Gettysburg will meet Waynesboro high here in another conference game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Back in 1903 an unidentified baseball scribe wrote: "John M. Ward, ex-star, prophesies that in 20 years teams will consist of 'local' players, that is actually being natives of the city in which they play. Then the game will really be played for blood." . . . Seems from here that the non-local Cards and Browns are doing a pretty good job just playing for money. . . . The City Optical softball team of Wilmington, N. C., had to go 25 innings to beat Camp Davis 14-11. Air Base in a recent game and fans down that way are wondering if it was a record. Anybody know? . . . What probably is a record is the broadcasting setup for today's Tulane-Notre Dame football game. Some ten networks, plus overseas short wave stations will "cover" the game.

Wilbur Kinley, Tampa, Fla.
Times: "We note with a certain degree of sadness that Detroit has donated its two tons of world series tickets to the waste paper salvage drive. Now if all the paper consumed by sports writers in picking the Tigers to beat out the Browns for the American league pennant was donated to the same cause, the drive would be well over the top."

When ex-middleweight champ Lt. Billy Soose refereed a recent Navy boxing bout at Camp Bradford, Va., in which the winner was to get a free telephone call to anywhere in the United States. . . . Billy hardly had raised the victor's hand when the kid asked if the phone privilege could be transferred. . . . "My bunkie's mother is pretty ill," he explained, "and it might help her some if she heard his voice."

Lt. John (Presto) Podesto of Modesto, St. Mary's and College of the Pacific has been added to the star-strewn Camp Lejeune Marine football team. . . . Did you know that the Maxwell Field, Ala., Air Force gliders are drawn from 20 eastern flying training command posts? . . . Billy Conn, who'd like to fill Sgt. Joe Louis' shoes, is soon to follow them in an exhibition boxing trek through Europe.

Holy Cross Whips Temple Eleven 30-0

Philadelphia, Oct. 7 (AP)—Temple university's youngsters were outclassed to the tune of 30 to 0 by a speedy Holy Cross college eleven in last night's football game in Temple stadium.

The Crusaders scored a touchdown in each of the first two periods, were held scoreless in the third and came back with three quick ones in the fourth. None of the points-after-touchdowns were made.

Outstanding were Ted Morasky, left half, and his replacement, Jim Cahill. Both these Holy Cross boys showed aptitude at running the ball and at heaving long, ground-gaining passes.

BROWNS DRUB CARDS 6 TO 2 TO SNARE LEAD

By JACK HAND
St. Louis, Oct. 7 (AP)—Unless the St. Louis Cardinals snap out of it quick, the ragamuffin Browns are going to complete baseball's big 1944 surprise story by adding a first world championship to their first pennant victory.

Heading into today's fourth game of the neighborhood rivalry, the "rags to riches kids" are hitting a thin 170, fielding a wobbly 350 but leading the Red Birds in the all-important detail of two victories to one. Jack Kramer was responsible for yesterday's 6-2 American league triumph.

With the forecast predicting fair and cooler weather, Skipper Luke Sewell is ready to go with Sig Jakucki, a tomato-faced right-hander "pick-up."

He will be opposed by Lefty Harry Brecheen whose record of 16 victories and 5 losses was one of the best in the National league.

Jakucki or Brecheen

Jakucki's last outing was a win in last Sunday's pennant winning game when the Browns made it four straight over the Yankees. That was a six-hit job coming on top of a five-hit shutout against Boston but his post-performance chart is spotty. A four game streak in June when he allowed only one run in four starts was his best. He won 13 and lost 9.

Brecheen likewise hurled the flag clincher for his club in a Boston relief job and captured his last three games, winding up his last starting job with a six-hitter over Brooklyn September 25.

Stopping the Brownies appears to be largely a question of stopping George McQuinn, the graceful first-sacker. He stacks out head and shoulders over the field on his .625 batting mark compiled on five hits, including two doubles and a game-winning homer, in eight at bats. McQuinn, "a ball player's ball player" has driven in four of the 10 runs his team has scored.

"Clutch" Hurler

If McQuinn was the big gun of the Browns' attack with three blows in yesterday's victory, Jack Kramer rated equal billing on his excellent exhibition of "Clutch" pitching.

The 26-year-old righthander, who drew a medical discharge from the Navy Seabees after six months service a year ago, was in hot water in the early and late innings, although Let's talk "milking machines" for just a minute . . .

Almost any dairy farmer wants a milking machine! Question is not whether, but which. Which milking machine is his best "buy"?

Maybe it'll help to mention a couple things about the Empire: Such as its patented test cup, that duplicates the sucking-massage action of the calf itself; and the letters we have from farmers praising their Empire. "30 years old and still going strong" . . . "7000 milkings with only a couple ships" . . . "Would quit the dairy business if I couldn't have an Empire"—things like that; their letters say.

Farmers have come to know that Empire Milkers, Esco Milk Coolers and Esco Farm Freezers come from a company that has proved itself inventive, progressive, service-minded—a real leader in helping make farm life easier and more profitable.

NIGHTHAWKS IN 27-0 DECISION OVER MAROONS

An improved but still outclassed
 Gettysburg high school football team dropped its third straight game of the season Friday evening at Hanover High Nighthawks at Hanover in a Southern Pennsylvania conference game before a large crowd by a 27-0 score.

Bud Musselman, leading scorer of the conference last year, got off to a flying start in his first league game to retain his title by scoring all of the Hanover touchdowns.
 Yost finished the scoring with three placement boots.

Hanover drove from its own 29-yard line to score in less than five minutes of play after the opening whistle. After Tonsel returned the kickoff to his 36 the Maroons were soon forced to kick to the Night-hawks' 29. Two straight first down-were recorded and then Musselman ran around his own right end for 29 yards and a tally. Yost missed his only conversion attempt of the evening after the touchdown.

Miscue Costly
 A few plays later Hanover tallied again when a bad pass from center was recovered on the Maroons' 4-yard stripe from where Mussel-man went off right tackle to score.

Coach Dry's boys put up their best brand of ball in the second quarter and held their opponents scoreless.
 Midway in the period Goodfellow intercepted a pass on the Gettysburg 39. Musselman and Yost combined to reel off two first down-to reach the 12 but the drive stopped there as the Maroons threw up a gallant defense. Geiselman lost four yards at end and Mussel-man picked up four on another end
 try. Musselman failed to gain on a reverse and a grounded pass followed to give the locals the ball on the 13. The half ended as Haehn-len punted.

Coach Reese's outfit took the opening second half kick-off and staged an uninterrupted touchdown drive from the 37-yard line.
 Baublitz, Markle, Yost and Mussel-man turned in a bit of nice ground gaining in the attack with Mussel-man finally going over from the four-yard mark.

Gettysburg flashed some offensive power on receiving the next kickoff with Haehnlen returning to the 23. Haehnlen picked up 12 yards around right end for a first down.
 Two tries by Haehnlen and one by Tonsel were good for another first down on the Maroons' 49. Hanover then braced and Haehnlen was returned to his 37.

Intercept Pass
 The Maroons held their own with their opponents for the better part of the last period but late in the round Yost intercepted a pass and got back to the Maroons' 16 before he was dropped. Two tries by Musselman netted 12 yards. Yost hit the line but failed to gain. On the next play Musselman crashed ever for his forth touchdown of the evening.

Hanover recorded nine first downs while the Maroons made four. The Nighthawks completed one of seven passes while Gettysburg made good on four of 10 with three being intercepted.

Fred Haehnlen played a nice game for the Maroons while marking improvement was shown by the entire team.

Next Friday evening Gettysburg will meet Waynesboro high here in another conference game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Back in 1903 an unidentified baseball scribe wrote: "John M. Ward, ex-star, prophesies that in 20 years teams will consist of 'local' players, that is actually being natives of the city in which they play. Then the game will really be played for blood."

Seems from here that the non-local Cards and Browns are doing a pretty good job just playing for money. . . .
 The City Optical softball team of Wilmington, N. C., had to go 25 innings to beat Camp Davis 14:1st
 Air Base in a recent game and fans down that way are wondering if it was a record. Anybody know? . . .

What probably is a record is the broadcasting setup for today's Tulane-Notre Dame football game.
 Some ten networks, plus overseas short wave stations will "cover" the game.

Wilbur Kinley, Tampa, Fla.,

Times: "We note with a certain degree of sadness that Detroit has donated its two tons of world series tickets to the waste paper salvage drive. Now if all the paper consumed by sports writers in picking the Tigers to beat out the Browns for the American league pennant was donated to the same cause, the drive would be well over the top."

When ex-middleweight champ Lt.
 Billy Soose referred a recent Navy boxing bout at Camp Bradford, Va., in which the winner was to get a free telephone call to anywhere in the United States. . . . Billy hardly had raised the victor's hand when the kid asked if the phone privilege could be transferred. . . . "My bunkie's mother is pretty ill," he explained, "and it might help her some if she heard his voice."

Lt. John (Presto) Podesto of Modesto, St. Mary's and College of the Pacific has been added to the star-strewn Camp Lejeune Marine football team. . . . Did you know that the Maxwell Field, Ala., Air Force gridders are drawn from 20 eastern flying training command posts? . . .
 Billy Conn, who'd like to fill Sgt. Joe Louis' shoes, is soon to follow them in an exhibition boxing trek through Europe.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
 Don Ameche, Dana Andrews and William Eythe head the cast of "Wing and A Prayer—The Story of Carrier X," the 20th Century-Fox film opening Monday at the Majestic theater.

The screen's first drama of our carrier force in action, the picture tells the story of an unidentified aircraft carrier and its Navy flyers who were marked as expendable in the master plan of strategy that led to the smashing victory over the Japs at Midway.

Also featured in the brilliant cast of the action-packed, swiftly-paced film are Charles Bickford, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Kevin O'Shea.

WEDNESDAY
 There's no secret about "Henry Aldrich's Little Secret" which plays Wednesday at the Majestic theater—its rip-roaring screen entertainment from beginning to end.

This latest in the family comedy series deals with more of the many complications in the life of Henry Aldrich, played by Jimmy Lydon, and his pal, Dizzy (Charles Stevens). Strapped financially, Henry starts a thriving enterprise by minding other people's babies. As head of the Baby Minding Agency, he becomes embroiled in a difficult situation which threatens to disrupt the community life of Centerville not to mention the reputation and good name of the Aldriches.

THURSDAY
 John Garfield returns to the screen of the Majestic theater Thursday in the vividly dramatic and exciting Warner Bros. film hit of a few seasons back, "They Made Me A Criminal," wherein he portrays a young, tough-skinned but softhearted fighter.

Ann Sheridan, Claude Rains, and the Dead End Kids handle the other top roles with a supporting cast including Barbara Pepper, William Davidson, Ward Bond, Robert Strange and others.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

"The Seventh Cross," starring Spencer Tracy, will be the attraction at the Majestic theater Friday and Saturday. It is the story of seven prisoners in "protective custody" who escape from a German concentration camp one morning in 1936. At that time, long before actual war started, there already were those who realized the scope and meaning of Nazi brutality.

Only one to make good his escape is George Heiser, played by Tracy, while the others, one by one are captured and dragged back to prison. Heiser, through tortuous days and night, and aided by loyal friends, finally makes good his bid for freedom from oppression. Completing the cast are Signe Hasso, Hume Cronyn, Jessica Tandy, Agnes Moorehead and Ray Collins.
